

Lantern signal-to-noise on SEAL

Aditya Sengupta

I'm trying to measure the signal-to-noise ratio on each of the lantern ports on SEAL. We have

- read noise: proportional to the number of pixels in each port
- dark noise: proportional to the exposure time, can be measured and we're able to measure a number of counts per pixel within each lantern port, which represents the sum of all these things.